What's new:

Calico Soundtrack is the soundtrack to the animated feature film Calico, which was released on DVD on December 6, 2005. All of the music was composed, arranged, and conducted by Steven R. Sharp. The music was developed from a score composed by Sharp for the 2008 live action film The Day of the Triffids. The soundtrack was released on December 6, 2005. Scoring Calico was Steven's first opportunity to be the sole composer and arranger for a film, having worked on the score for dozens of others. Additionally, his three years composing for the live action Day of the Triffids sequel ("The Day of the Triffids, Part 2") gave him a background in scoring for a longer form than either feature or film music. This is the first fully-animated film score that Steven has composed, and it is his only anime-original score. Additional compositions by original sound designer and "calico" composers Jay Chattaway and David Sutton were used in both the opening sequence and background songs.
